

A replaceable razor blade cartridge including a blade unit (16), and cartridge connecting structure for connecting the blade unit (16) to handle connecting structure of a handle (12), the cartridge connecting structure having inwardly directed surfaces (34) for mating with outwardly directed surfaces on the handle connecting structure, the blade unit (16) being pivotally connected to the cartridge connecting structure, the cartridge connecting structure including a latching member (44) that is movable to release the cartridge from the handle connecting structure prior to retraction of the cartridge connecting structure from the handle connecting structure.