

The utility model relates to the printing production, in particular, to the newspapers. Print consists of one or more sheets containing visual information on the surfaces, moreover, the edges of sheets are connected together along open perimeter with formation of internal cavities.