

The invention relates to the prevention and therapeutical use of lavender oil for the treatment of neuro asthenia, somatization disorders and other diseases associated with stress. The invention also relates to medicaments containing lavender oil and dietary food items, aswell as preparations and capsules administered as oral dosage forms.