

The invention relates to a method for the purification of a clay that is intended for therapeutic use.