

The invention relates to a method for the production of photopolymerisable cylindrical jointless flexographic printing elements, by application of a layer of photopolymerisable material to the external surface of a hollow cylinder and joining the edges by calendering. The invention further relates to a corresponding device for carrying out said method.