

An educational and entertainment complex contains the amusement devices and the educational means located at the separate sites. Partially, the amusement devices and the educational means are made as the models imitating the ensemble of the ancient historical and architectural buildings. The sites where the models are located are designed as the mobile and/or turning platforms with the appliances for fastening the models stated above. The complex allows for imitating the state of the ensemble in the course of the consecutive historical epochs according to the different historical versions.