

The invention relates to optical instrument making, in particular to material for interference coatings. Optical elements with coating can be used in laser optics and optoelectronics. Disclosed is a composition of material for coating with low refraction index comprising magnesium fluoride and material with high refraction index comprising zinc sulphide, those comprise in addition lanthanum (III) sulphonate-fluoride.