

The invention relates to a process for the preparation of thermal expanded graphite by thermal treatment of oxidized graphite in combustible mixture, in which oxidized graphite by compressed primary air is transported to the corresponding mixing zone, where secondary air and gaseous fuel are also supplied, and prepared mixture is supplied to turbulence chamber and burned.