

A process for prevention of scale and corrosion formation in water-circulation cooling systems comprises treatment of water with oxyethylidenediphosphonic or nitrilotrimethylenephosphonic acids or their mixture. Solutions of phosphonic acids or their mixtures and solution of mixture of sulphuric acid and zinc sulphate are separately dosed into water.