

A disclosed multilayered lightning protection material is made with possibility of at least partial fitting to the object to be protected, and comprises a dielectric layer and a conductive layer. The material further comprises a second dielectric layer, the conductive layer is placed between the dielectric layers.