

The invention relates to methods for multiplex analysis of complex protein samples from plants using mass spec-troscopy. In some embodiments, the disclosure concerns methods for maintaining a transgenic plant variety, tor example by analyzing generations of a transgenic plant variety for presence and concentration of multiplexed transgenic proteins.