

Disclosed is an earring lock which comprises a base, a fixture rigidly fastened by one end on the base, and an element for fixing the free end of earring fixture to the base. The base is provided with a longitudinal groove for location of the fixture free end, and the fixing element is installed on a pin near the groove with possibility of turning relative to the base plane and is equipped with a fixing recess.