

The present invention relates to a process for increasing protein content of oilseed meal and said process is a gravity separator and the oilseed meal obtainable by the process. It further relates to the use in animal (feed, in particular petfood and aquafeed. It describes the use of gravity separator for increasing protein content of oilseed meal.