

There is described a composition comprising a microparticle component and a highly potent active agent encapsulated in the microparticle.