

The proposed digital recursive filter can be used in correcting devices of automatic control systems. The filter contains amplifiers, adders, and time delay elements.