

A dispenser comprises a body with pressure and discharge mains, a fixed plate with two profile windows, a drive shaft, a flat rotary valve, this is arranged as a piston and installed to closed reboring of the drive shaft. In the valve two side channels are provided, those connect the pressure main to the reboring.