

A method for cleaning of material made of feathers and fluff, at which this material is additionally processed by disinfecting substance.