

The furnace of sintering machine comprises an ignition node, for instance with four burners installed in the end part, and the node of stabilization screen arranged as lined with refractory material case with arch ceiling. At that at the inner part of the arch of the stabilization screen the block of pipelines is installed.