

A disperser contains a bottom with openings, side walls connected with the bottom, and fastening elements to the shaft. The bottom is made in the form of a solid of revolution, for example, cylinder or cone, side walls - rings, and opening - longitudinal slots.