

A razor with replaceable cartridge contains a replaceable shaving cartridge, which includes a housing with contact and bearing surfaces, connected by means of rotary supporting device to connecting element, support of which contains cavity and holder, which is equipped with supporting device of cartridge, form of which provides connection with the cavity of connecting element of cartridge, and the body of separation of cartridge from holder, which contacts with internal surface of cavity. Replaceable shaving cartridge additionally contains elastic element, which connects the bearing surface of cartridge and the surface of connecting element.