

Convactor has body inside which heat exchanger is installed, and fan with electric motor. Convactor is equipped with control system, this consists of control block and at least one power block. Control block is connected to at least one power block one output of which is connected to at least one convactor, and the other output is connected to electric power network.