

A method for making a broom for massage and curative purposes includes gathering and preparing tree branches, tying thereof into bundles, forming a handle, putting into vacuum packages and freezing.