

A method for production of compound comprises the formation of composition, which is hardened by mixing of epoxide resin with plasticizer, introduction of solvent and heated filler, mixing of the composition with a hardener.