

System for optimization of cashier services for buyers includes automated cashier's working place, this includes computer to which are connected scanner of bar codes and check printer, it has as well terminal for preliminary collection of =data from bar codes of buyer's goods, scanner of bar codes built-in to terminal and printer connected to terminal. Terminal is equipped with software for transformation of information collected from bar codes to one two-dimensional bar code of buyer's goods.