

A filter cleaning installation of water supply system additionally contains cleaning chambers, which are divided and connected by connecting pipe branch, and cassette type filters are installed in the chamber with branch pipe for supply of damp water and are made with possibility of their lift for washing; moreover the filter cassette from both sides is sewn by wire meshes, between which is placed a load, or the cassette has only wire meshes with insignificantly increasing cells.