

An attraction relates to devices for leisure-time entertainment providing for several operation modes with the spatial transfer of the seats in various planes creating the festive relaxation. The device can be used for the design of the whirligig and other types of amusement devices.