

Drill cutter has body with washing channels and clots and cutter layer fixed at the edge of the body, this consists of particles of wear-proof material placed in volume of binding material, and reinforcement elements. Reinforcement elements are arranged as cutting plates placed in the slots of the body or placed just in volume of binding material in radial positions, at that central part of the cutter layer is free of the plates.