

Device for high-frequency deflection of optical ray relates to optical systems for scanning with optical ray, systems of remote measurement of geometrical parameters of objects, devices for horizontal and vertical scanning of image in special large-scale television systems.