

Rotary poly-projector device of locomotive consists of two rotary headlights of high beam and one rotary headlight of lower beam and electronic control block, GPS receiver and indicators of turn of headlights. Drive of rotary headlights is individual and its control is performed by computer connected to receiver of system of global positioning through serial interface.