

A method of manufacturing an article of the fresco type relates to the decorative and applied arts and it can be used at producing articles of fresco type for facing rooms.