

A toothbrush consists of a handle, a neck and head with bristles. A clock timer announcing by an acoustical signal that time is up is built into the handle.