

A method for protection of openings of coal mines relates to mining industry and can be used at designing, penetration and protection of openings of coal mines.