

A method for compiling the set for covering the carrier with application comprises the technique for paper twisting and application. The full-color image is applied onto the carrier and then the prepared elements of mosaic and application are glued. The paper strips are cut from the elastic sheets of color paper with the specified thickness, length and width capable of holding the shape of the elements.