

A sill supporting structure has a body with fixation elements, at least one chamber placed in it, formed with vertical and horizontal walls. The chamber is filled with heat-insulation filler.