

A lock device has body, keyhole formed in side surface of the body, cross bar installed in the body and arranged with possibility of going to locking slat, key with working section as code elements, mechanism for blocking travel of cross bar placed in the body with blocking elements in number of code elements of key, means for key motion to mechanism for blocking travel of cross bar placed in the body and arranged as slide with hole for the key, drive of the mean for key displacement. The device additionally includes key holder and the mean for key displacement and mechanism for blocking travel of cross bar are placed behind the cross bar at side opposite to side surface of the body where keyhole is provided.