

A combined chisel comprises a body, a chisel made as a flat blade, and also lateral extensions mounted in such a manner as to allow regulating an angle of entry into soil disposed oppositely on the body. A trapezoid cut with a transversal rigidity rib in the middle thereof is made on the blade. The body is equipped with additional lateral extensions.