

An anticounterfeit bottle closure comprises an external cylindrical part, a sealing cap provided on the upper part of a deepening of outer cylindrical part, an inner cork hermetically fitted with a sealing closure, a glass ball located on the bottom hole in the recess of inner tube. Along the perimeter of the sealing closure connected to the inner cork an edge is provided. At least two turns of wedge projections are provided on the upper middle part of the outside wall of the inner cork. On the upper part of the wall of inside cork one turn of projecting part is located .