

A device for induction heating liquid inside pipeline comprises in series connected AC regulator, an induction heater, first heat-sensing device fastened to input pipeline. In series connected AC rectifier, an induction heater, a second heat-sensing device, first heat-sensing device. In induction heater at least one induction winding and at least one cylindrical core is made of ferromagnetic material.