

Pressure differential alarm has body, spring supported piston placed in it, this is equipped with a magnet, and sensitive unit with movable magnetic system placed on the body. The movable magnetic system is arranged as two magnets and a movable contact placed between those, installed on common axle, the sensitive unit additionally includes control screws.