

A unit for connection of a gear ring to the body of a cylinder that includes elastic elements that are with one end connected to the body of the cylinder, and with the other end to the ring gear arranged as an assembled in height pack, and the elastic elements are arranged with bend value of which is not less than tooth spacing of the ring gear.