

Digital automated coercimeter includes Helmholtz coil, generator of linear current, control block, threshold block, element AND, pulse counter, digital indicator, trigger, generator of clock pulses, pulse divider, peak detector, differentiating block, indicator of tangent component of field strength, indicator of normal component of field strength, two quadrators, adder, and block for root extraction. Additional indicator of tangent component of field strength is used, this is placed at the opposite side of the article.