

Device for finding center of magnetic mark includes one-slot flux-sensitive magnetic reading head. In the device the third threshold element is placed, this is connected to the phase detector and to the first input of the second logical element AND, second measuring winding connected through connected in series second amplitude detector and fourth threshold element to the third inputs of logical elements AND, third measuring winding connected through connected in series third amplitude detector and fifth threshold element to the fourth inputs of logical elements AND.