

Drive of a slider of a sewing machine has a crank installed on the main shaft of the machine, a con-rod that is connected to the crank and the slider placed in the bushing, device for restriction of the travel of the con-rod with a tubular guide. On the bushing an optical couple is placed, its optical axis goes through the openings in the slider and the bushing.