

A process for the preparation of diffusion juice comprises supply and scalding beet chips in a scalding, its subsequent extraction in a column diffusion apparatus. The juice and chips mixture, removed from the scalding, is separated into juice and chips supplied into the column diffusion apparatus from below through a distributing canal. Juice through a heater is turning back into the scalding.