

A mesh structure is a net frame made of wire netting. To the netting of the face facet of the frame vertical wire rods are plaid into, and in the net frame at least one row of horizontal metal buckets is placed, those are attached with one ends to vertical rods of the face facet of the frame, and with the other ends – to the netting of the back facet of the frame.