

A process for intrinsically safe protection of metal and concrete surfaces comprises the preparation of surface (conditioning, dust elimination, defatting) and applying of coating in three layers – adhesive, base with reinforcement material and protection. As the reinforcement material a mineral powder of fraction of 0.63-1.8 mm is used with further glazing of the polymerization layer and coating of the last protection layer on polyurethane base.