

A pre-fabricated cross piece for a rail crossing piece mechanism includes wing rails, cores and back rail terminations arranged at angle of intersection one with respect to another. The wing rails are arranged as angle of intersection one with respect to another, those are foldable and include the front sections and the back sections that adjoin the core.