

Disclosed is a method for microfilm quality enhancement wherein for the simplification of optimum arrangement of document in the frame field, sharpness setting and selecting shoot options as well as for further control of microfilm quality in the microphotography process a special mask is used with the same ratio of dimensions as in the microframe (3:2), at edges of the mask high-visibility images are made.