

A device for recording information communicated by means of quantum entanglement has two electronic generators with close frequencies which are subtracted one from another forming difference frequency and a device recording time variations of this difference frequency.