

A method for local strengthening of detail comprises the processing of surface by plastic surface deformation (PSD) with simultaneous supply in procession zone of epilaminating substance.